

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Cast:

Priya Hall

Leila Navabi

Robin Morgan

[Here to Judge Theme Song]

Robin: Welcome to Here to Judge where we scour the internet to dissect dilemmas and decide who's to blame.

Leila: Here to Judge today is me, Leila Navabi.

Robin: Me, Robin Morgan.

Priya: Me, Priya Hall. And our wonderful live audience from Assembly Festival in Coventry!

[Cheers and applause]

Priya: Delicious.

Robin: Thank you very much for being here. Shall we crack on?

Leila: Let's crack on. I'm going to go straight into the first story, are we all ready to read this? This one's from Reddit I do believe. OK. 'Am I the asshole for switching to regular milk to prove my lactose intolerant roommate keeps stealing from me?'

[Laughter]

'Me and two other guys share an apartment together and we all split all bills. The only thing we don't split costs on is groceries. Everyone is in charge of buying their own food and we don't touch whatever doesn't belong to us in the fridge. We put our names on everything so no one gets mixed up. The issue has been going on for almost a year, and I'm sick of it! One of my roommates R' just the letter R [chuckles] I'm assuming that's not their full name. 'keeps stealing my food. I get home from work and my containers with all my leftovers are sometimes missing. They have my name written on it. All my stuff finishes too quick. My gallon of milk for example. I buy almond milk because I like the taste'. Bollocks.

Robin: Asshole. Calling it.

Leila: Asshole that's it.

Priya: Immediately.

Leila: 'But it seems to finish after a week even though I've only drank once or twice. I've confronted R about this lots of times and that's caused a lot of arguments. He outright denies it and tells me I'm crazy even though it's so obvious. My other roommate and I carpool together because we both work the same early morning shifts around the same area. So I know it's not him. It's always after we get home and R's already left for work that I notice my food has gone. My roommate also has a similar problem but not as often as I do. I'm guessing because R doesn't like what he buys.' [Laughs] Zing! 'The funny thing is, R buys a lot for himself and is even more stingy about his food. He will literally point out what's his when he comes back from grocery shopping and tell us not to touch it. Last week my milk was nearly empty again and I got fed up. I went to the liquor store and bought regular dairy milk' [laughs] Oh that famous liquor.

[Laughter]

I'm assuming dairy milk as in milk that is dairy and not a Dairy Milk the chocolate bar.

Robin: Yeah I think so yeah.

Leila: OK.

Robin: These fuckin' Americans man.

Leila: Yeah I know. So uncivilised.

Priya: Just call it how we feel.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Robin: Yeah [laughs].

Leila: Yeah, yeah, yeah. 'I drank what was left of my almond milk and refilled the gallon with the one I'd bought. This was to catch/prove R is the one stealing since he is a lactose intolerant.'

[Laughter]

Leila: 'The nxt day' that's what it says, there's no e, so I will honour that. 'The nxt day Saturday we get back from work and R is pissed.' From the alcoholic milk, obviously [laughs].

Robin: [Laughs]

Leila: Uh no. 'He yelled at me that he was stuck in the bathroom for 40 minutes with diarrhea because of my milk, he was using it to make a shake.' [Sighs] I hate Americans. 'I only responded with' I don't really, Coventry, the famous home of Americans. 'I only responded with 'So then you're the one who has been stealing'. He freaking exploded. Yeah he admitted he was sometimes drinking my milk and eating my food but he was more mad that I switched milks than the fact that he was caught. I told him that I wouldn't have done that if he'd just stop taking my stuff from our fridge. Or at least told the truth instead of trying to make it seem like I was making it up. My roommate backed me up and thought it was kind of funny. He got payback from stealing from us. It's a little tense right now and my roommate said, little does he know we're both looking to move somewhere else together because we're sick of his shit.' Literally as well. 'I told some buddies what happened and a few think I was an asshole for that. I feel like I'm not in the wrong here. He was taking my food and not even owning up to it and I want to prove it, does that make me TA?' which stands for the asshole. OK so what do we think?

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Priya: I definitely think this person is the asshole for writing a full novel about how he's poisoned his roommate.

Leila: [Laughs]

Priya: I mean learn to edit.

Leila: Yeah that's a fair point.

Robin: I don't think he's the asshole.

Leila: Yeah that's how awful it is.

Robin: I think he's wonderful. I think this is the perfect way to react to something. You know we've all lived in house shares and people have taken stuff. If you could the next day make your housemate shit themselves to death for thieving things, I would do that 100%.

Leila: Right, having flatmates, how would you feel about sharing food? Like if someone wants a drop of milk, are you like?

Robin: Drop of milk is fine.

Priya: Robin's flatmates are his children.

Leila: [Laughs] Yeah that's true. That's true yeah.

Robin: They are so dependent.

Leila: Yeah, yeah [laughs] OK historical flatmates then.

Priya: OK.

Leila: That sounds like you were like Henry Tudor's flatmate [laughs].

Priya: Would you poison Anne Boleyn?

Robin: Yeah. The ghost of Jane Seymour. A drop of milk is fine, anything more than like something for a cup of tea I feel like is not OK. My friend when he lived in a house share in Swansea, his housemate used to steal his shampoo and he knew that because it just went down. So my housemate then pissed in the shampoo bottle.

[Laughter]

Leila: No! What's wrong? And you think that's OK?!

Priya: Just to set the tone of the show.

Robin: I think that's totally OK.

Leila: No! What shampoo was it?

Robin: Tresemme I don't know.

Leila: Alberto Balsam is my.

Priya: And you wouldn't know it was piss in Tresemme?

Robin: That's the genius of it.

[Laughter]

Leila: I don't believe in Tresemme. There I've said it.

Priya: OK go on.

Robin: All right John Lennon.

Leila: Why is it so big?

Robin: What do you mean?

Leila: There's so much of it.

Robin: It's the only one I can use.

Leila: Or what? What happens?

Robin: My hair gets really frizzy, honestly.

Priya: It's because there's piss in it mate.

Robin: Yeah [laughs].

Leila: [Laughs] Yeah right OK.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Robin: Damn my children!

Leila: I think it's like really, why didn't he just confront him and be like you are obviously stealing my milk. I would wait to catch him.

Priya: He has confronted him several times, it does say. So you would escalate the poisoning.

Leila: Yeah but poisoning him. I honestly think surveillance, secret surveillance is actually less morally reprehensible than poisoning someone.

Priya: Are you a hidden camera housemate?

Leila: [Laughs] No I'm not because no one has drunk my milk but.

Priya: OK but you would.

Robin: I think we should get a Ring doorbell on all of your doors.

Leila: Yeah I know but fucking Ring doorbells. Right, I want to talk about Ring doorbells for a second.

Priya: OK.

Leila: I know this is taking it...

Robin: We lose so many sponsorship opportunities because Leila just slags off every company.

Leila: Yeah I know.

Priya: Tresemme. Milk.

Leila: Yeah milk.

Robin: Americans.

Leila: Yeah. They need sponsorship. OK we're going to talk about how Ring doorbells are I believe the end of our society. Does anybody have the Nextdoor App? Is that a thing here right? Where it's like all your neighbours are on an app and I joined it as a joke, obviously.

Priya: Yeah sure OK.

Robin: So what's the app sorry? All your street joins it and what you chat about the street?

Leila: Well so like Dawn from down the road would be like 'Oh my God the teenagers are out again'.

Robin: Don't fight yourself Dawn.

Leila: Yeah, yeah, yeah exactly that. I like to watch people being really whiny about everything.

Robin: Yeah.

Leila: Not by myself. And the other day someone posted a picture of their Ring doorbell and was like 'Look at that'. And it was a man delivering his parcel and I was behind [laughs]. And I think the point was that the parcel was quite misshapen and hadn't been handled very well. But I couldn't help but really take it personally.

Priya: [Laughs]

Leila: And I was like, that's. It's like have you ever Google Earthed and then been like, oh my God there's Sue or whatever in the whatever place.

Robin: Yeah, yeah, yeah.

Priya: But Google Earth is like look at all that.

Leila: Yeah that's true, yeah, yeah, yeah.

Robin: You mean Google Street View because otherwise if it's Google Earth Sue is massive.

[Laughter]

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Leila: Oh yeah. I mean I didn't want to say anything, Sue. I think OK, I think it's quite an asshole thing to do, I'm really sorry.

Robin: I do agree.

Leila: Although we've got a fun thing to do.

Robin: So usually at the end of each dilemma we work out who we think is the asshole. For this lovely live version, we each have been sent to our homes a musical instrument that we are going to give to the other person, so none of us have seen what we're going to use. And if we think someone is the asshole we're going to play this musical instrument.

Leila: As if we are adjourning a court a la Judge Rinder/ Judy.

Robin: Yeah.

Leila: And any other judge in the country [laughs].

Priya: I really suggest that you think that they're the same person.

Leila: They are.

Priya: Sure.

Robin: What would you do?

Leila: Right we're going to pass this down. How is this going to work?

Robin: Just going down that way.

Leila: Going down the left and then Priya you give yours to me. So we haven't seen these, we've only seen our own. OK.

Robin: Did you wrap?

Priya: Yeah I wrapped.

Robin: That's really sweet.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Leila: Have you wrapped it?

Priya: You'll realise that I'm the nerd of the group and that's my identity.

Leila: Pass the parcel.

Robin: Guess what's in there?

[Laughter]

[Instrument played]

Robin: It sounds like a frog!

[Laughter]

Robin: Is anyone else really impressed with that?

Priya: Robin are you aware you've given me a gong and a triangle? And I cannot play both at once.

Leila: This feels like there's some real weird racial thing going on as well.

Priya: Classic Robin.

Leila: The other brown of the group, OK.

Robin: Well maybe one's for the audience.

Priya: Oh! Who would like a triangle? Yes!

Leila: Oh yes!

Priya: Immediately.

Leila: What's your name?

Rob: Rob.

Leila: Rob! Rob is having the triangle. Do you actually play the triangle professionally?

Rob: Yes I've played for four years.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

[Laughter]

Leila: No hang on, sorry, sorry. Are you taking the? You've played for four years. Does it take that long to learn?

Rob: You would be surprised.

Leila: Well I would be surprised Rob!

Priya: We've got nothing to hear to.

Robin: Good fucking luck Rob.

Rob: It's OK I have four years training.

Priya: [Laughs]

Leila: OK so Rob's now got out his keys.

Robin: Rob do you actually play the triangle or are you being funny?

Leila: Give us a tune Rob.

Rob: Wait, wait, wait. [Strikes the triangle]

Leila: Oh! OK.

Priya: That's delightful!

Robin: Did the producers send you?

Leila: Gangnam style.

Robin: Did the producers send you? I can't believe the first applause break on the show is for Rob hitting a triangle.

Leila: Yeah fuck you all.

[Laughter]

Leila: OK I want to open mine that's been wrapped. So OK. What?

Priya: It's a trumpet.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Leila: [Blows into the trumpet]

Priya: [Laughs] It's the saddest thing I've heard before in my life.

Leila: Yeah that is really upsetting.

Priya: Can I do my gong? Can you hold my mic?

Robin: Yes.

Leila: Yeah let's just practise the sounds.

Priya: [Strikes the gong]

Robin: That's good.

Leila: Great OK well that was fun.

Robin: Although these people didn't give it a fuckin applause break.

Leila: Yeah I know. Yeah I know.

[Laughter]

Robin: Once you hear a triangle nothing impresses you.

Priya: [Laughs]

Leila: Right, we're going to come to our conclusion. We should all give our points and then we will do a final round where we adjourn the court.

Priya: OK.

Leila: I'll play it properly [laughs].

Robin: We've got all these musical instruments doing fuck all on the table!

Leila: Yeah fine OK. So my argument is that he is an asshole because he poisoned his friend to prove a point about milk and I think it's OK to steal your flatmate's milk, sorry.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Robin: I don't think he's an asshole. I think he's a genius and basically he thinks he's like Sherlock but with the power to make people shit themselves. And I love that.

Leila: OK.

Priya: I would have thought he was an asshole if he hadn't had several conversations about it. And I think look once you've had a civil conversation and no one's listened, it's fine to poison someone.

[Laughter]

Robin: We also need the audience to decide in a sort of Red Peppers Green Tomatoes, I don't fucking watch it...

[Laughter]

Robin: ...type way.

Leila: If you think asshole shout asshole.

Audience: Asshole.

Asshole.

Ass.

Leila: [Laughs] We're going to start a coup in Coventry.

Priya: Uh oh.

Leila: OK and who doesn't think asshole, say 'not asshole'.

Audience: [Majority of the audience] Not asshole!

[Triangle played]

Leila: Court adjourned OK.

Robin: Thank you Rob.

Priya: That was beautiful.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Robin: Thank you very much, round of applause for all of yourselves and Rob.

Leila: Yah!

Robin: Amazing stuff.

[Applause]

[Promotion for Welcome to Spooktown]

[Here to Judge- Interim Music]

Robin: OK we're off to Mumsnet, give us a cheer if you've got a Mumsnet account.

[Silence]

Robin: Cool

Leila: Good OK.

[Laughter]

Priya: Who does? Who does?

Robin: 'Am I being unreasonable to love looking in people's windows!' Not a question mark, exclamation mark. 'I'm on maternity leave, my baby loves the pram (what a surprise as older darling daughter hated it!)'.

Leila: Darling daughter.

Robin: 'And naps well in it but wakes up when I stop walking. I also do the school run twice a day for older darling daughter. So I found myself wandering around the streets exploring parts of the neighbourhood I haven't been to before. I love looking into people's front windows, it feels so nosy blush'.

[Laughter]

Robin: I'm reading verbatim.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Leila: Put a pin in that.

Robin: Yeah, yeah, yeah. What they have on their walls. Artwork, photos etcetera. How their furniture is arranged. Where their TV is positioned (and how big it is)'.
[Laughter]

'Have all become a source of fascination to me. Has my baby brain turned to mush and I need to get out of the nearby streets more? Is it terribly bad manners? Anyone have a good nose into front windows? Disclaimer- from the street!' She's funny.

[Laughter]

'Not entering gardens and pressing my nose up against the glass! And also not stopping and gawping, always moving along (aforementioned sleeping baby)'.
Leila: Are you a man on Mumsnet? We didn't know that all ready, fucking hell OK.

Robin: Yeah, yeah, yeah. So what do we think?

Priya: I think this woman has absolutely been arrested and this is her statement that she's just posted Mumsnet to be like, we'll see.

Robin: Do you reckon this is instead of her one phone call.

Priya: Yes [laughs] yes.

Robin: She's gone 'Can I have some WiFi please?'

Leila: [Laughs] Wait, what? Being in jail it's not like Who Want to be a Millionaire where you get to choose what correspondence you want.

Robin: I think that'd be great.

Leila: OK.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Robin: Instead of your one phone call you could just like...

Leila: Ask the audience.

Robin: Yeah, yeah, yeah. Get on WiFi or yeah just have a text. Download a Jamster ringtone or something that you wanted.

Leila: Oh yeah that's a good point. I have loads of thoughts about this. It feels, what I'm confused about is why it's the baby's fault that she's doing this?

[Laughter]

Leila: Pre baby I never looked through the window, and then suddenly. Why? Why?

Robin: Yeah.

Priya: Because the baby gives her an excuse, she's always wanted to but the baby gives her an excuse.

Leila: Does no one else look in windows? I look in windows if I'm on a walk.

Priya: Yeah baby or no baby.

Leila: I'll tell you what, pandemic, like one walk a day time, my favourite thing to do was just to look in the windows and see what everyone else was doing.

Priya: Your intense eye contact with me suggested you were looking through my window.

Leila: [Laughs] I absolutely was yeah.

Robin: [Laughs]

Leila: Yeah.

Priya: I live on the first floor.

Leila: Yeah exactly that's why the ladder is there. Is it a really bad thing to do? It's not like a voyeur, it's not like I'm watching people have sex, I'm just watching them watch Britain's Got Talent [laughs].

Robin: I think I'd rather people watch me have sex than watching that.

Leila: Yeah, yeah, yeah. I like to just judge people based on what they're watching.

Robin: Yeah.

Leila: Oh when everyone did VE day then I was like watching what they were watching on telly because I was like aww. Like what do people who? Right, does anyone here celebrate VE day? No, good OK.

Priya: That's a no.

Leila: On my street everyone suddenly, and I'd never seen it before, I didn't even know about it, and suddenly everyone's doing tea parties.

Robin: Yeah.

Leila: And they've got their things out the window. I was like, right what are they? How did they hear about this event?

Robin: It felt like pandemic madness didn't it?

Priya: Oh yeah.

Robin: Fine we'll just fucking go back 100 years shall we?

Leila: Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah.

Priya: And we'll enjoy it.

Leila: Yeah exactly yeah.

Priya: Some of us will.

Leila: Yeah weird. Do you know what? I don't think it's particularly asshole. I just think it's like if this is the most. This is really reminiscent of when Theresa May said the naughtiest thing she'd ever done was run through a wheat field.

Robin: Yeah that's true.

Leila: This is exactly that energy.

Priya: I think this woman is severely underplaying what she's been doing.

Robin: [Laughs]

Priya: No one would post on the internet for this, she's been doing something much creepier but she's underplaying it because she's on Mumsnet. If this was on Reddit it would be like 'Am I the asshole for breaking into my neighbour's house and licking all their spoons?' and you'd be like yeah. That's what she's been doing. Baby brain.

Robin: Yeah.

Leila: Baby brain.

Robin: I don't think she's being unreasonable, I think I like her levels of enthusiasm when she's describing this. She's so pleased with herself.

Priya: [Laughs]

Robin: She thinks she's the naughtiest bitch alive.

Priya: Sure.

[Laughter]

Priya: And in fairness she is.

Robin: Oh yeah.

Leila: 100%.

Robin: She's our special guest later.

Priya: [Laughs]

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Robin: She's not coming out, she's going to watch you through your window.

[Laughter]

Leila: I think calling it a source of fascination, the way someone has arranged their furniture is quite indicative that perhaps you should go and like. You can have friends and you can go into their houses.

Priya: Yeah.

Leila: You can see it like in 3D.

[Laughter]

Robin: That would be too much. Unless she turned up with the 3D glasses on.

Leila: Yeah [laughs] Yeah she goes into someone's house and just like has a nosebleed.

Robin: She's the kind of person that would on Come Dine With Me and go straight upstairs to their room and start going through their drawer.

Leila: Oh my God I hate when people! That's why I could never go on Come Dine With Me, that's the only reason.

Robin: People rooting through the drawers.

Leila: Yeah.

Priya: I would immediately...

Leila: No, no, no that's what I mean because now it sounds like I have really weird things in my drawers. I don't.

Robin: I've just got these.

Leila: Yeah actually that was in my drawer for a spell of time.

Robin: Was it?

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Leila: Yeah when it got posted to me I put it in the drawer.

Robin: In the frog drawer, obviously Robin.

Leila: The drawer which is now baron.

Priya: Lest they use the ghost frog.

Leila: Yeah exactly.

Robin: It's cute that, I really like it.

Priya: It is. It's haunted but.

Robin: Do we get to keep in?

Leila: It's been up my bum. No it hasn't, that was a joke.
Terrible joke, horrible.

[Laughter]

Robin: What did you say Leila?

Leila: I said it's been up my bum but it hasn't been up my bum.
I don't know why I said it.

[Laughter]

Leila: Now I'm saying it...

Priya: Professional comedian.

[Laughter]

Leila: Yeah. Uh OK.

Robin: I know it was a joke but now I feel weird if I touch it [laughs].

Leila: Yeah, well it was white when it came. Uh.

[Laughter]

Priya: We're above this.

Leila: [Sniggers]

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Priya: We're not.

Leila: Terrible.

Robin: I mean the edited version of the podcast is above this, the live one clearly isn't [laughs].

Leila: No.

Robin: What do we think then?

Leila: Look I think what I'm going to say is I don't think she's an asshole because she looks in a window.

Robin: She's an asshole because she's being unreasonable.

Leila: I think she's an asshole because, oh sorry you weren't asking about that.

Robin: Am I being unreasonable? She's an asshole!

Leila: Yeah I don't think it's unreasonable to look into other people's windows but I think it's unreasonable to use vernacular like, I feel so nosy blush. So that's where my like intolerance for this human being stands.

Robin: [Laughs]Yeah because it's not like blush emoji. She's just written the word.

Leila: She's written the word blush.

Robin: Blush. Blush.

[Laughter]

Robin: I might start doing that with emotions.

Priya: I really hope you don't.

Leila: I used to go to a hairdressers called Blush and once they cut my ear, she didn't tell me until I got home and I looked at my neck and it was like dripping blood.

Priya: [Draws breath shocked]

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

[Laughter]

Robin: That's why they call it blush.

Leila: [Laughs] Yeah, yeah, yeah. So that was fun.

Robin: We did one half live version.

Leila: No. No, no you're not going to.

Robin: [Laughs] In February and it was streamed live. And Leila, would you call it slander or libel?

Priya: [Sings] It was slander.

Leila: It was true so it was just exposing.

Robin: Slandered a local DJ.

Leila: It was just a weird energy.

[Laughter]

Priya: If weird energy was a crime we'd all be fucked.

Robin: Yeah, yeah, yeah.

Leila: Yeah OK, well?

Robin: So what do you think?

Leila: I'm going to tell my verdict.

Robin: Yes please.

Leila: Can I do my verdict?

Robin: Yeah, yeah, yeah.

Leila: I think, I'm going to say it, not because she looks into windows but I think she is an unreasonable person so [blows trumpet]. I'm running out of breath.

Robin: Yeah [laughs].

Leila: Of course they give this to the asthmatic.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Robin: Yeah [laughs]

Leila: And by the end I'll just be like do my inhaler in one hand and then this in the other. OK continue.

Robin: I don't think she's being unreasonable. I think she needs to have more enjoyment in her life and maybe have an affair.

[Laughter]

Leila: [Laughs]

Robin: Hello.

Priya: That's always the advice he gives.

[Laughter]

Priya: I don't think she's being unreasonable but I think she should admit to the crime she's definitely done. [Gong]

Robin: And audience if you think they're being unreasonable shout 'Asshole' no, no. If you think they're being unreasonable shout 'Unreasonable'. One, two, three.

[A few audience members shout unreasonable]

Robin: Oh good luck Tom. And if you don't think they're being unreasonable shout 'not unreasonable'

[Many audience members shout 'not unreasonable']

[Gong]

Leila: Yah!

Priya: Yah!

Robin: Thank you very much everybody. Dah-ti-done.

[Applause]

[Here to Judge- Interim Music]

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Priya: OK story three. 'Am I the' I want to say butthole.
'Buttface OK'

Robin: AITB.

Leila: AITB.

Priya: AITB.

Leila: Or is it Am I The Bitch?

Priya: Buttface.

Leila: OK.

Priya: It says buttface, I haven't just made that call myself.

Leila: Shutting me down [laughs].

Priya: Buttface.

Leila: OK fine, fine, fine, yeah.

Priya: 'Am I the buttface if I bought clothes from a charity shop and made a profit selling them online? I didn't do this personally but my niece did and it's divided the family's opinion. My niece, 16, female, goes to a school that asks students to volunteer one afternoon a week and gives them half a day off school to do so. She decided to start helping at a charity shop sorting stock. Whilst working she saw some items for sale for £3 and bought them, knowing she could sell them online for way more. They were edgy, think like old vintage sports brands. So she made £19 by selling them on Depop. She's now decided to keep going with this all year, buying cheap items on her shift and selling them online to start her own business doing it. Some of the family think she's being entrepreneurial and she's giving the money to charity that might not have been given otherwise. Other family members think it's immoral to make a profit off a shop not knowing the real value of these items and that she should help them to market that sort of customer or at least split more of the profits with the charity. So Reddit is she the buttface?'

Leila: Stealing from the poor, a business, is all this reads to me.

Robin: Yeah. Oh how entrepreneurial.

Leila: Yeah exactly, I have so many thoughts about this but you go first.

Robin: I feel like it's the kind of back story that you would get on an Apprentice candidate.

Priya: Yeah this is peak Alan Sugar isn't it?

Robin: Yeah this is like a millennial like a Gen Y Alan Sugar. He wasn't selling aerials out of the back of a van he was stealing from Scope.

Priya: Did you say selling arrows out the back of a van?

Robin: Aerials.

Priya: Aerials that makes more sense than arrows.

Leila: What's an aerial? Like the mermaid?

Robin: Like a TV...

Priya: Can you tell Leila's the youngest one? 'What's an aerial?'

[Laughter]

Robin: So TV is...

Priya: [Laughs]

Leila: Not a TV aerial. I don't?

Robin: Like a TV aerial.

Leila: Why do you keep pointing at the sky?! Like an alien controls the TV.

[Laughter]

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Robin: So an aerial it goes on the roof and Elon Musk sends...

[Laughter]

Leila: I really don't know if you're joking. I really don't.

Priya: Do you remember satellite TV?

Robin: Like the Sky dishes.

Priya: Oh my God.

Robin: Leila is three-years-old.

Leila: No I'm not I'm 22.

Robin: She's 22.

Priya: This is child labour.

Leila: [Laughs] Yeah.

Robin: But you know like a Sky dish at the end...

Leila: Sky dish?

[Laughter]

Robin: I feel soooo old.

Leila: I'm really sorry.

Priya: Leila's the asshole!

Leila: Dish? What do you mean it's like a dish?

Robin: I'm 31.

Priya: For reminding us of our mortality.

Robin: Can I show you?

Leila: Why would you have an what's it called?

Robin: Aerial.

Leila: Why would you have an aerial when you can have a dish?

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Robin: Mint aerial.

Leila: Like a dish?

Priya: So before dishes you had aerials and they would pick up satellite signals? Yes?

Leila: So dishes go in the middle? Oh yeah so you see those on houses sometimes.

Robin: Yeah, yeah.

Leila: Is that what controls the TV and I didn't know that.

Robin: Yeah, yeah because it has to get the signal from space.

Leila: So how do you get it up there? Like who decides? Like how does that make it work?

[Laughter]

Leila: I'm being serious. I'm really sorry.

Robin: And then some of them like the terrestrial ones are just like big old sticks and stuff.

Leila: Yeah they look so ugly. Everyone should take them down, they're so ugly.

Robin: But then we'd have no BBC1.

Leila: You could just watch it on Smarts.

Robin: You're so young.

[Laughter]

Leila: OK.

Priya: I want to put you in a room with my nan and make you fight until the death.

[Laughter]

Leila: OK. Is your weapon the...

Robin: Do you have a TV or do just watch it on your laptop?

Leila: I have a TV.

Robin: Just like a smart TV.

Leila: Yeah.

Priya: We know you watch stuff on your phone. Because we've had this conversation before.

Leila: Yeah but I mostly don't. I just do everything on my phone. I work off my phone, I write on my phone, I watch television on my phone. If it's any consolation the world is going to end before I turn 60 so it's maybe a good thing.

Priya: This is what happens when you talk to young people. Every conversation ends with 'It doesn't matter, the world's going to end'. And you're like uh.

Leila: Yeah.

Robin: But then again if rising sea levels just go on top of the aerial.

Leila: I wonder if Greta Thunberg knows what it is? OK well.

Robin: Where did we come from with that? What was that?

Priya: Alan Sugar.

Robin: Alan Sugar.

Leila: Oh yeah stealing. Oh yeah Alan Sugar that was a wild ride.

Robin: [Laughs]

Leila: Yeah I think this is a really bad thing to do, conroversh maybe, I don't know.

Priya: I agree.

Leila: As someone who like at one point in my life did not have very much money at all and would shop at charity shops, I would have had to wear like old. It's like you get a choice between like all the rich people who have left all their like Adidas tracky bottoms in the charity shop and also all the nans that have died. And so whether I was wearing sportswear or a blouse.

Priya: You're wearing cool sportswear today and I'm definitely dressed like a nan.

Leila: [Laughs] We just have to show the whole spectrum of society here. I think yeah, and you notice it when like all the private schools come out.

Priya: Yeah.

Leila: And they all come out of their private school and then they walk into the charity shop, you're like fuck you.

Robin: Yeah.

Leila: No? OK just me.

Robin: No, no, no, totally.

Leila: I feel very strongly about this. Why are you selling it on Depop?! I hate Depop.

Priya: I spend so much time on Depop and I know full well that I am buying off people who are doing exactly this. So while I think this is immoral, I do like cheap clothes.

Leila: My problem with Depop is you go online and I'm looking for clothes in a size 10, and someone will go 'This enormously oversized sweatshirt will fit you as an oversized. If you want to look like you're in a hessian sack buy this, it doesn't fit me and my tiny frame because I'm 15'. And so that's my problem with Depop.

Priya: That's fair. That does happen a lot. It's like size 6 but too big for me. And you're all right.

Here to Judge-Episode 41- The Bigot Horn (Live in Coventry)

Leila: Fuck you.

Priya: What do you want a chocolate watch?

Leila: Yeah. No time for that.

Priya: I like that on Depop I only receive about half of what I buy and the rest of it is just gone to the Royal Mail. I respect that. I'll never see those sandals as long as I live.

Leila: Yeah being a postman and seeing people's items. Because that happens, we're all aware that happens right?

Priya: Leila's a postman, you should know.

[Laughter]

Leila: I'm not a postman. I look like I'm a postman today [laughs]. Let's just talk about how I've come dressed as a postman. Why am I? Priya came in this beautiful dress today and I was like great.

Priya: A dead grandmother.

Leila: Let's um.

Robin: I also wear clothes.

Leila: You wear clothes. You wear lovely clothes, I like your clothes.

Robin: That's kind of you.

Leila: OK I'm a lesbian, I'm not flirting with him, it's not awkward.

[Laughter]

Leila: Just FYI, I was worried that looked weird then. OK in case you couldn't tell from my postman outfit!

Priya: You could probably buy a postman's outfit off of Depop actually.

Leila: Don't give me ideas [laughs] OK do we want to conclude this one?

Priya: Uh yeah.

Robin: I think quite clearly, it feels like, I'm being entrepreneurial but when you sort of actually go down to it, yeah what they said at the end which is yes but tell the charity shop how to do that or split the profits.

Leila: But also the other thing is, I don't think it's the worst thing. It's not the most immoral thing in the world.

Robin: No but I guess that's why it's phrased like 'Are they a buttface?'

Leila: Yeah fine.

Priya: Also if that was the format of this podcast, just finding more immoral things, I think we could go for quite a long time.

Leila: Yeah that's true. I think buttface. I'm going to blow my buttface horn [blows trumpet] So pathetic.

Robin: Buttface [plays frog]

Priya: I think I would go beyond buttface and say that she's an asshole [gong].

Leila: [Draws breath shocked]

Robin: Uh audience? If you think they're a buttface shout 'buttface'.

[Many audience members- 'Buttface!']

Robin: Yeah. I really hope the Brazilian Circus was like mid trick.

Leila: Yeah exactly.

[Laughter]

Robin: And they heard a tent go 'Buttface!'
